BCI Minerals (BCI:ASX) Corporate and Project overview

Salt: a valuable commodity

Salt (NaCl, sodium chloride) is composed of two essential elements that are used in thousands of manufacturing processes – sodium and chlorine.

Downstream products that are produced with salt as a feedstock input include:

- Glass
- Paper
- Paints
- Aluminium
- PVC

As salt is typically the most cost-effective method of obtaining high purity sodium and chloride units, it is also a critical mineral in energy transition and the development of emerging clean technologies, including solar panels and battery systems.

Overview

Mardie is a fully integrated salt and sulphate of potash (“SOP”) project, located on the West Pilbara coast. Once completed, Mardie will be Australia’s largest solar salt project, and rank third in scale globally. Mardie will produce industrial-grade salt from seawater using a method that is similar to existing WA producers that have been in operation since the 1960s. Steady state production target is 5.35Mtpa of high purity salt and 140kt of SOP.

Mardie will initially be developed as a salt project (“salt-first”), however, BCI intends to progress final engineering towards making a final decision on a SOP circuit. If that decision is positive and additional funding can be obtained for the SOP Plant (conditional on existing project financiers approval), SOP will be refined from waste produced in the salt crystallisation process, and the addition of SOP is projected to be highly accretive to the future investment returns of the project.

BCI’s base capital requirements for the “salt first” phase of Mardie Project is $1,287 million plus contingency of $156 million or $1,421 million plus contingency of $208 million for the entire Mardie Salt and Potash Project (including $511 million of capital & operational expenditure to 31 December 2023).

Key Investment Highlights

Abundant resource & positive ESG credentials

- Long term resource, with abundant supply of seawater and 99% of the energy required for the production process sourced from solar and wind.
- Sustainable, low environmental impact operation with SOP to be refined from salt waste.
- Green loan certified.

Low risk design

- High quality infrastructure, with pond embankments built to “1 in 100” risk standards by 2028. Mardie construction is 30.9% complete.

Low production cost / high margin profile

- Generational asset (potential 60+ year project life) with annuity-like cash flows, developed based on proven solar salt operations globally
- Steady state Salt & SOP EBITDA of ~$385M (salt-first steady state EBITDA ~$286m)
- Salt opex: A$22.2/t (steady state, real) with c.60% EBITDA margins at steady state.
- Generates long-term free cashflow of $255M p.a. (steady state) over the project life (Salt & SOP)¹

Poised to capture market demand

- Strong offtake interest – terms sheet signed with Itochu (Japan), advanced discussions with an Indonesian chemical company and moving towards formal execution with Wanhua Chemical Group.²
- Strong demand from Asian target market over the next 10 years, with forecasted long term salt price expected to increase from US$52/t in 2022 to c.US$64.7/t.³

Multiple growth / value options

- Fully integrated project with control over key infrastructure allows for future expansion options and cost reduction opportunities
- SOP plant engineering designs advancing⁴. SOP highly accretive for the project (SOP real operating costs of A$363/t vs projected 2040 price forecast of US$708/t)⁵
- Flexible shipping options, with the ability to ship with capesize vessels (and the only Pilbara exporter able to do so).

Salt first project funding in place

- A $981M Syndicated Facility Agreement was executed in HY24.⁶
- A $315m fully underwritten equity raise launched in February 24.

Significant salt demand growth expected from Asia

The chart below outlines Wood Mackenzie’s salt demand growth forecasts to 2030.

Salt market pricing

Wood Mackenzie and Project Blue¹ are forecasting long term salt prices of US$62-67/t (real, 2023$) for Australian salt delivered into Asia, up from the US$50/t forecast used in the initial Mardie FID study (October 2021).

The significant uplift in the long term price forecasts recognises:

- The strong price trend observed in recent years,
- Economic growth outlook in key markets, particularly SEA
- Lagging supply capacity expansion
- Evidence of the emerging market supply deficit

BCI’s internal view based on discussions with proposed offtake partners is that there is upside opportunity to the adopted salt price forecasts.¹

Salt offtake progress

Japan, Korea and Taiwan

On 27 June 2023, BCI executed a term sheet with Itochu, one of Japan's largest trading and investment companies. Key terms include:

- 5-year term from date of first supply of salt.
- Term Sheet salt volume of 0.5mtpa in years 1 and 2, 0.6Mtpa in year 3 and 1.0Mtpa in years 4 and 5.
- Itochu presented an updated sales plan in Oct-23 outlining significantly higher volume than those in the Term Sheet. Parties are currently discussing increased sales volumes.
- The parties plan to agree a formal salt offtake agreement in 1H 2024.

China

An offtake agreement has been signed by the GM Procurement for Wanhua Chemicals. The parties are in the process of finalizing formal execution of the agreement.¹ The key offtake terms are:

- 3-year term from date of first supply of salt.
- Anticipated volumes of 700kt salt in year 1, and 1.1Mtpa in years 2 and 3.
- CFR price in US$/t agreed between the parties in respect of each price period during the supply term.

Indonesia

Discussions are well advanced with an Indonesian counterparty^{2, 3}

- 3-year term from date of first supply of salt, with the potential to extend for another 3 years.
- Anticipated volumes of 300kt salt each year, with option for the contract to be extended for another 3 years.
- FOB price in US$/t agreed between the parties in respect of each price period during the supply term.
- The parties plan to agree a formal salt offtake agreement in 1Q 2024.

¹ There is no guarantee that the offtake agreement will be binding until the formal execution process has been completed. BCI will announce formal execution of binding offtake agreements which meet project finance drawdown conditions when this occurs.

² Until binding agreements are executed, there is no certainty that binding offtake arrangements will be entered into on terms (or timing) acceptable to BCI. Further ASX announcements will be made as and when offtake arrangements are finalised.

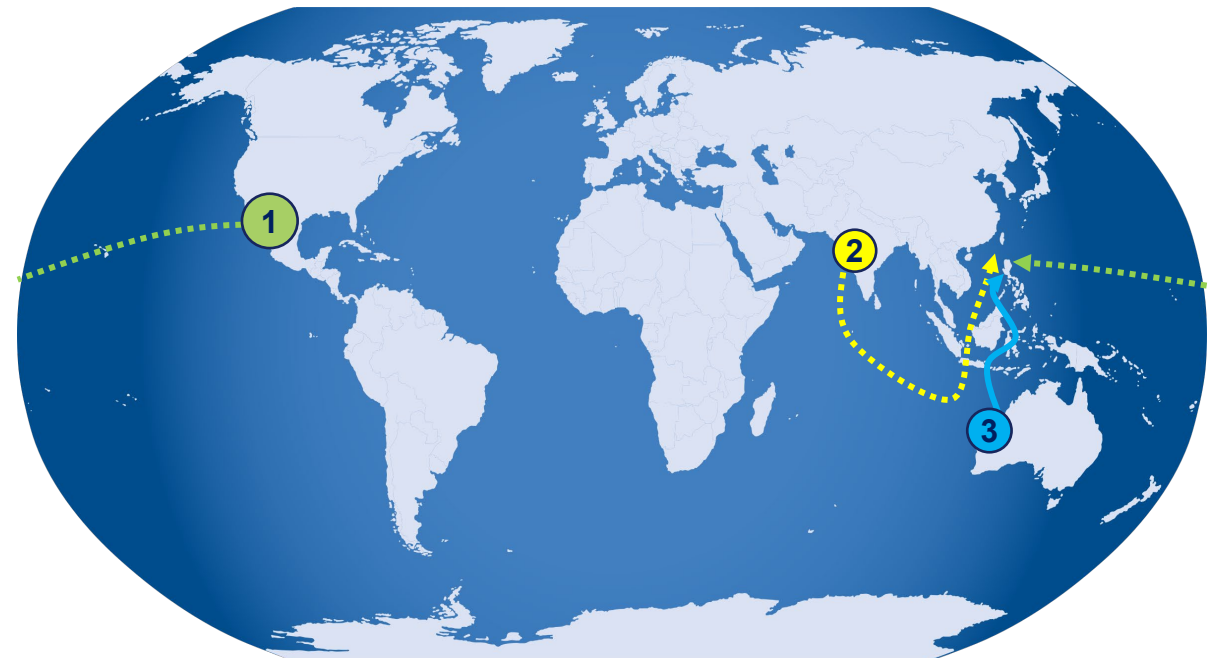

³ Introduced to BCI by Mining Industry Indonesia ("MINDID"). These offtake negotiations are the result of the offtake discussions with MINDID referred to in the ASX announcement of 4 July 2023.

Mardie infrastructure provides a sustainable cost advantage

Mardie's key competitive advantages in freight are its shorter distance to South-East Asian customers (relative to Mexican and Indian competitors) and the ability to ship via larger Ocean Going Vessels (“OGVs”).

The ability to load Capesize vessels (up to 180k dwt) via trans-shipping from a dedicated port provides Mardie with a structural advantage relative to Australia peers. BCI expects that Mardie will attain lower weighted export freight than its competition in Western Australia, due its significantly greater economies of scale from loading larger OGV's.

	Producer Country	Sailing Distance to Market ¹	Quality	Max Vessel Size	BCI Advantage
1	Mexico	19.9 days	High	180kdwt (Cape)	✓
2	India	14.9 days	Low to Med	60kdwt (Ultramax)	✓✓✓
3	BCI (Australia)	10.4 days	High	180kdwt (Cape)
3	Dampier Salt (Australia)	9.8 days	High	85kdwt (Panamax)	✓
3	Shark Bay Salt (Australia)	10.4 days	High	50kdwt (Handymax)	✓

Tier 1 cost profile for salt production

Salt Cost Curve

Mardie's average free on board costs at port is expected to be at the bottom of the second quartile of the cost curve, competitive with the five existing large WA operations¹.

Freight advantage of Capesize vessels ensures a firm position in Quartile One on a delivered cost (CFR) basis.
