Dear Sir,

Resonance Health Analysis Services Gains Quality Management Certification

Resonance Health Ltd (ASX: RHT) today announced that its wholly-owned subsidiary, Resonance Health Analysis Services Pty Ltd (RHAS), has been granted international Quality Management System Certification, ISO 9001:2000 and ISO 13485:2003, by the Société Générale de Surveillance (SGS) United Kingdom Ltd for its FerriScan® analysis services.

RHAS provides analysis for the determination of liver iron concentration in people with, or suspected of having, iron overload disorders. SGS is a world leading inspection, verification, testing and certification company and is recognised as a global benchmark for quality and integrity. SGS UK is part of this group.

About ISO 9001 and ISO 13485:

ISO 9001:2000, Quality Management Systems - Requirements is an international standard that provides guidance on the requirements for establishing a Quality Management System. ISO 13485:2003, Quality Systems – Medical Devices – Particular Requirements of the Application of ISO 9001 applies these same Quality Management System principles to organisations that are involved in the design and manufacture of medical devices.

Both of these international standards are based on eight quality management principles:

- customer focus;
- leadership;
- involvement of people;
- process approach;
- system approach;
- continual improvement;
- fact based decision making; and
- mutually beneficial supplier relationships.

Managing Director, Dr James Williams said "The granting of the Quality Management System Certification provides further evidence of RHAS's continuing commitment to providing a high

About Resonance Health Ltd

Resonance Health (ASX: RHT) is an Australian Healthcare company specialising in the development and commercialisation of magnetic resonance imaging (MRI)-related technology for the quantitative measurement of iron levels in the human body. Our mission is to develop and market our technologies to assist in the diagnosis and management of patients suffering from iron-related conditions, whilst delivering significant added value for our MRI customers who deliver our service through their networks.

In 2005, RHT began the global commercial launch of FerriScan®, its world-leading non-invasive tool for measuring liver iron levels.

The FerriScan service involves an MRI scan followed by off-site processing of the images by RHT using its patented methodology to generate the liver iron concentration result. MR data is transmitted electronically via a secure data process to the RHT analysis centre from anywhere in the world. The test requires no new equipment purchase at the MRI centre level. FerriScan provide a significant improvement over current blood markers and invasive surgical procedures. This improvement leads to increased clinical efficiency and accuracy in diagnosis, in addition to allowing optimisation of treatment programs for iron-related disorders such as hereditary haemochromatosis and thalassemia. FerriScan is now positioned to become a routine part of the clinical diagnosis and management of iron loading disorders as well as playing a major role in the testing and monitoring of drugs used to treat these conditions.

FerriScan has received regulatory clearance to be marketed in the US, Australia, UK and Europe. Further information about Resonance Health and FerriScan can be obtained from the following websites: www.resonancehealth.com and www.ferriscan.com.
